Experiencing the NOW

Joyfully written by: Rev. Dr. Rick Prigmore

Kilimanjaro, a bald dome, projecting through the royal robe of clouds hovering around her shoulders; "When the Saints Go Marching In" played New Orleans style on an alpenhorn in a disco in Lucerne, Switzerland; the mesmerizing aroma of a picaki lei nestled about the brown neck of a Waikiki dancer; the whisper of Caribbean surf gently kissing Grenada's mile-long Grand Anse beach at midnight under a Caribbean moon; a glorious sunset over the unseen Dry Tortugas viewed from Key West's waterfront.

Such sights, sounds, and smells as these provide a bountiful harvest of memories as I sit contemplating the past and reducing sensory experiences to the written word in:

Sights, Sounds and Smells

Memories are etched indelibly through the all-sense experiences of our years on the planet. We touch gently the soft skin of a baby's cheek, the sensation producing such euphoric joy that a tear forms near the corner of our eye. Has that happened to you? The chilling apprehension of a phone call in the wee hours - where are our loved ones? What emergency has occurred? Quickly, clear the cobwebs from the brain-in-repose to better cope with whatever has happened.

The symphony of bird calls, bubbling brook and whispering leaves; the cacophony of madly rushing traffic, thundering diesel engines, the nerve-shattering screech of tires on blacktop; the stench of exhaust fumes assailing nostrils; the permeating fragrance of lilac wafting from a nearby bush. This is the tapestry of life.

As I grow older, and hopefully, wiser, I take more time to pause and smell the flowers. I don't know about you, but I missed a lot as I rushed pell mell through my middle years, plunging into this business or that activity, ever seeking the elusive, society-approving 'success' mantle. To paraphrase the 'been there, done that' theme, I 'had some, missed some' as I ricocheted through mid-life, hearing the bells and whistles, but missing the melodies and the chimes. Wallowing in the false value of public accolades and ego stroking, I ignored the gentle reminders of sharing, caring and trusting. Ever alert for new experiences, I 'back-burnered' too many 'bird-in-the-hand' treasures for the elusive pots at the end of rainbows.

Somehow, as time moves on, I have been able to sift the beautiful from the ugly, the pleasant from the unpleasant, the joy from the sadness, leaving my memory bank a landscape of aromatic flowers, exciting vistas, satisfying activities and permanent friendships. Without seeming intention, I've deposited mostly joy and happiness in my memory bank, discarding the tears, hurts, anger and disappointments. I can't remember the last time I was angry; it's been years since I remember feeling hurt or disappointed. It seems that beautiful memories cushion us against aging. They are a permanent treasure trove that never wilts, tarnishes, nor withers. They are intangible gifts of The Universe.

I find my greatest satisfaction in experiencing the NOW. Some days it's easier than others, but every day is a new adventure of sights, sounds and smells. Someone once said, "Smile. It improves your face value." I try to do that - a lot.

To: Unlimited

By Rev. Dr. Jeni Prigmore

Love is a VAST sea

Unlimited
Unless we,
In our reticence or inexperience
Limit it.

Waves, one after another
Undulating,
Full of power and beauty
Present themselves
To our awareness.

Each wave
An individual
Unless, in our fear,
We must see all of it
In a big piece...

And Even
That Is Glorious -

It IS the Oneness,
The God Force,
In action.

Yet,
Let us remember
That each expression of love
Is a new wave,
Unique, eloquent, a gift.

In Loving Memory of Minister/Director Mary Ann McCamley Allen

Written by Rev. Gary Wah

Minister Director Mary Ann Allen (nee McCamley) has passed over to the light. Mary was an amazing person in so many ways. She brought laughter and light to everyone she met. Even when her own life was full of the usual problems that we all face, she never let it get her down, always willing to lend an ear or a shoulder to anyone who needed her, whatever time of day or night. She was a Reiki Master and teacher. Her classes were a delight to attend because you knew by watching her she believed in everything she said and did. Even though throughout her adult life she faced trials that tested her to the limit, she never faltered and shone like the sun in a summer sky. This was amplified even more when she met her future husband, Peter.

They met because Peter was recovering from cancer. He had found Mary through the National Association of Spiritual Healers and they had given him her details. Mary went to offer healing to Peter and with her and the help of her Reiki circle the recovery process was phenomenal. The medical experts were baffled how Peter had healed so quickly with no pain, but obviously we knew. They became firm friends and after that, husband and wife.

Mary lived happily with Peter, in fact, the happiest she had ever been. However, a few years into the marriage Mary developed cancer. With the help of her friends and beloved husband, she soldiered on and made a recovery. Sadly, the cancer came back and after a brave battle she left us peacefully on 14 December 2010. She was sixty-four.

Mary was my confident, my Master, my teacher, my guide and my friend. She was so many things to so many people. A mother, a sister, a grandmother, a wife, a teacher, a friend. Someone who would never turn you away. Someone who would give you her last penny if you needed it. Someone who would be willing to help others even if it meant hardship to her. I will never forget her. She was wonderful, amazing, beautiful, kind, considerate, full of light.

Quite simply, she was Mary. We will never, ever forget her and she will be with us always...

The Pathway

Once, the human souls understands the grace
And kinship with all things
Worthlessness is left behind
Love shines ~ we are all one with creation
And the greatest power fills us with joy.

The great skies flow
Meeting, dipping, touching the earth
Green, blue, grey, sun, rain
Storm showers and rainbows
A continuum like great arms
Encompassing the worlds

Seas follow their ebb and flow
Lakes, rivers, glaciers, smooth as glass
Turbulent in their restless search
To enfold all oceans

The great winds feed the balmy breezes
Touching skin and hair
Storm winds speak of glory
And power of the heavens
The great sun gently warms us early
Growing in heat, strength until it sets
In a stormy sky

The dear sweet earth
Rotates effortlessly in its motion
Finds a universal rhythm
Lives, dies, renews,
Gathers all to its mighty heart

The seasons rise and fall
All beauty, different,
Carrying the pulse of Oneness

Great light shines
As knowing floods out spirit
We join wholeness
Play our light like angel music
Joy as grace is given

My Ministry

Reverend Barbara Lancaster Lyman

I was ordained into Universal Brotherhood in 1994 pledging my dedication to the brotherhood of mankind. Shortly before that I had earned my first and second level Reiki degrees. My desire to serve as a healing minister was begun. As I continued with my Reiki training, I became a Reiki Master so I could pass on the healing symbols to others.

My studies in A Course in Miracles soon offered an opportunity to teach this amazing work in Lexington and Frankfort, Kentucky. On occasion I was asked to cover the class at Unity of Cincinnati as well. I continue to teach the Course to-day.

I studied with my Unity minister and mentor and had some training in ministering to people in hospitals and eventually learned about prison ministry. In the years to come my husband and I spent about three years teaching classes and mentoring men who were striving to overcome addiction to alcohol and drugs.

One thing I learned through all these activities is that ministry is every day of my life. Whether in the jail, the classroom setting or in a hospice unit administering Reiki, I am a minister of God. Ministry includes my neighbor, the checkout person at the store, the waiter at the restaurant, as well as the gas station attendant. As A Course in Miracles teaches, "every encounter is a holy encounter." Dedication to the brotherhood of mankind includes every walk of life, and I am grateful to Universal Brotherhood for the opportunity to live this each and every day.

Quote from Mother Teresa:

"Spread love everywhere you go first of all in your own house.

Give love to your children, to your wife or husband to a next door neighbor.

Let no one ever come to you without leaving better and happier.

Be the living expression of God's kindness; kindness in your face, kindness in your eyes, kindness in your smile kindness in your warm greeting"

Sharing The Journey....

Rev. Este Shares Her Visit to the Holy Land as she partakes in The 13th Interlink Global Conference

It was amazing to be in the Holy Land - again. But this time it was not to visit family and friends, but rather to honor the memory of a beautiful enlightened spiritual teacher, Menorah Charney and partake in and The 13th Interlink Global Conference sponsored by the not-for-profit organization she had started over 30 years ago, the MPH (Meditation for Peace and Harmony) group. I was one of about 30 presenters. The theme: Tools for transitioning into the new global energies – preparing for 2012.

This year it was held in the luxury facility called Kfar Hamaccabiah in Ramat-Gan, Israel. The cost: about $300 for 4 days, including 2 over the top buffet style meals per day, snacks and drinks and an organized guided bus trip, excluding accommodation.

Over 30 presenters from all over the world gathered to uplift world energy individually and as a group through lectures and workshops. Many techniques were taught, ideas shared, but for me the most wonderful aspect of this conference was the high energy work that targeted people, countries and especially earth itself. I'm always excited to see how individuals put aside differences and unite in one cause.

At the end of three filled days we took a meditation trip to holy places, the main one being Jerusalem, to spread light and anchor the new energies there. We worked on the Israeli Parliament to help strengthen the peace process. We blessed and buried crystals on mount Olives in Jerusalem, each receiving one to take home. The trip was the cherry on top of the cherry on the ice-cream that this conference was.

Presenters came from all over the world, as did participants. Dr. Thomas Clough Daffern of Scotland lectured about esotericism and peace. He is a world renowned scholar who is working on a project called Divine Intelligence, one of many he's involved in. He lives in a castle on the shores of Loch Goil in the Highlands of Scotland, where he runs a Centre for Education, Spirituality, and the Creative Arts and Peace Work.

Dr. Sujata Vaida of India is a holistic treatment health practitioner. She uses Kirlian photography (a method by which the energy field around an individual call aura is photographed) to diagnose health issues before they can be detected through the usual medical process. She recommends the use of yoga, breathing and mantras as healing modalities and assigns the proper one much like a prescription, but no side effects.

Dr. Robert Sonders Dreyfus from Switzerland is renowned for his knowledge of the Keys of Enoch, an ancient text containing spiritual knowledge that can unlock your life and move you along the evolutionary process at enhanced pace.

Erik Berglund of the U.S.A. lives near Mount Shasta, California. He's a world traveled harpist performer and a healer. His Healing techniques help awaken inner power, heal oneself and others. His harp music is other-worldly.

Mania Henis of Germany channels the Ascended masters who always remind us that we're the children of light and are blessed to live at this time as we help usher in the golden age.

I presented my own technique called Instant Quantum Healing, a super fast, easy to learn, easy to use power tool to heal anything in your life in minutes and help heal the earth in the process.

There were local presenters on Kabala, the ancient knowledge of Judaism, Tagaya, the art of movement that connects us to the power of life, Laughter Yoga, Maya calendar, practical spirituality, Archetypical Astrology, Hebrew Shamanism, rebirthing, super crystals as tools for awakening the spirit, music and movies were also presented. It was a celebration of spirit at its best. I pray that I would be able to be there for the 14th interlink conference next year.

Este L. is a spiritual teacher, counselor, holistic healer, lecturer and spiritual artist. Este holds classes in various subjects and does individual integrative counseling using several modalities that help people move forward in their own lives. She holds workshops in Instant Quantum Healings, and also specializes in back pain and finding your way back to wellness. Rev. Este L. has both conventional and alternative degrees. I BELIEVE

By: Rev. Dr. Rick Prigmore

I believe in an ever present, omnipotent, omniscient "Potential" which is constant at all levels of expression,
known and unknown.

I believe this Potential
in its static state is LAW,
in dynamic state is LOVE,
in its divine state is SPIRIT.

I believe this Potential
is known as LIFE,
at all levels, in all facets.

I believe in MYSELF
as a personalization
of Potential,
a multidimensional, spiritual being, with the ability to draw on every attribute
of Potential.

Therefore, insofar as I can accept it and
my consciousness can embrace it,
I AM LIMITLESS POTENTIAL
It is my choice to unfold - or fold.

THE RENAISSANCE OF MIND HEALING IN AMERICA

Written by Rev. Albert Amao

Is mind/spiritual healing a myth or fact? Have you ever wondered how millions of people have been healed from “incurable” diseases without medicine? Can one be healed through the mind only? Or is it a spontaneous remission, a placebo effect, or the result of a suggestion? This book provides a rational and coherent explanation to those unique questions. Step into the mystery of mind healing, into a mystical and metaphysical world that previously was reserved to a select few people. Through the years, many wonderful cures have taken place and various marvelous phenomena have developed in New England since the mid-nineteenth century.

The purpose of this work is to describe the phenomenon of mind/spiritual healing that originated and flourished, particularly in New England. The goal is to examine the exceptional healing of the most prominent contemporary religious leaders of the New Thought Movement, who recovered their health by mental and spiritual means from supposedly “incurable” diseases by mental and spiritual means. Furthermore, the book elicits the mechanisms that triggered their healing, examines the rationale behind the so called mind, spiritual, and faith healing, and explains the effectiveness of this kind of treatment where conventional medicine of the time had failed.

New Thought pioneers after being healed with this method of mind treatment founded several churches and organizations that are still in fashion nowadays.

Their influence in the new way of thinking in America has been very significant in the American lifestyle. New Thought advocates a new way of life based on positive and constructive thinking. The application of these metaphysical principles to daily life has been proved of extraordinary value to achieve success and to enjoy a more fulfilling life.

This book postulates very challenging and thought provoking ideas, such as that Phineas P. Quimby, the father of the New Thought Movement was indirectly healed by his helper Lucius Burkmar; that Mary B. Eddy, the founder of Christian Science, was healed by means of autosuggestion using Quimby’s metaphysics and by affirmations extracted from the Bible and not by divine intervention as she claimed; that Melinda Cramer, cofounder of Divine Science Church, recovered her health through awareness of the presence of the divinity (Jung’s numinous); that Myrtle Fillmore, cofounder of Unity Church of Christianity, and Williams James, father of American Psychology, both of them used affirmations from the Bible to heal themselves, the first from long standing physical illness and the latter from depression and hallucinatory experiences; that Freud and Jung used self-analysis and self-confrontation to overcome their psychological crises and produced their masterpieces: The Interpretation of Dreams and the Red Book. These statements are fully documented in the mentioned book.

EDUCATE, DON'T MEDICATE The Clear-Minded, Non-Medication Solution For Children With ADD/ADHD Symptoms Author: Rev. Brian Sheen

"Educate, Don't Medicate" contains case studies of families who sought another path in overcoming the ADD/ADHD symptoms. Instead of medications that can stunt physical and emotional growth, they participated in The Clear Minded Children's Program.

In Rev. Sheen's book, you will learn how the Clear-Minded Children's Program, is a first choice before giving children drugs like Ritalin, Adderal, Zoloft, etc. Join the journey of children replacing medications with new resources that make the drugs unnecessary, and witness the changes in the families as they learn how to use special techniques to develop better relationships that enhance learning, concentration and relaxation."

Rev. Brian Sheen is a complimentary and alternative medicine practitioner utilizing psychoneuroimmunology, bioenergetics, clinical hypnotherapy, NLP, meditation/yoga, quantum psychology and 35 years experience to re-educate and re-direct positive change in each participant.

DO YOU REALLY KNOW WHAT GOES ON IN NURSING HOMES? An Insider Tells All Author: Rev. Shirley Ann Kraemer, Ph.D.

"With thirty years of nursing-home industry experience behind her, Rev. Shirley Ann Kramer raises many important issues in her book Do You Really Know What Goes On In Nursing Homes? Within these pages Rev. Shirley proposes to separate myths from truth about residents of nursing homes and the staff that cares for them. She also offers a vision of change by embracing new and innovative teachings that center on a holistic personal and professional philosophy. She challenges nursing home professionals, at all levels, to wake up and be the leaders once again and calls for society to 'move the care of our elders to a higher level of consciousness.'"

Communicating With Your Body

Rev. Manohara Ferretti, MDiv

We often do not tune into the needs or state of our bodies, usually taking it for granted and getting upset with it when it malfunctions. Becoming aware of and kind to our bodies is an important way to maintain good health and optimum self-expression in life.

Follow these reminders and you won't go wrong!

Nurture and appreciate your body every day.

Stop judging it. Focus on the pluses not the "flaws." It's all relative anyway!

Move the body: exercise, dance, and play.

Ask your body ...check in with your body to see what energy level it has, whether there's a part that's not up to snuff...this way you can honor it and avoid over-exertion or injury.

Eat well and tune in to make sure you don't overdo it.

Seek to discover where this ache, this pain or this disease comes from. The answers are very revealing and most often relate to stresses we are unaware of.

Relieve stress every day: meditate, breathe deeply, go for a walk, listen to music, stretch, get a massage, or beat up a pillow to release pent up emotional and physical tension that can damage health.

In order to become increasingly attuned to your body's messages and needs, try doing a body-scan technique daily for a few weeks. In addition to becoming more aware of each part of your body, you will also find this a deeply relaxing exercise, which can help improve sleep and lower blood pressure.

Start by sitting comfortably.

Close your eyes and place your full attention on the toes of your right foot, then focus on the toes of your left foot, then focus on the sole of your right foot, the sole of your left foot, right ankle, left ankle, etc.

Work your way up each leg by alternating your awareness from side to side then to the torso, including organs, to your arms and eventually your face and head.

Take your time (about 45 minutes) and include as many body parts as possible...you can even include whole systems, such as skin, blood vessels, the skeletal system, digestive system, etc. Be open to noticing how each body part feels and what, if any, thoughts you have about it. Don't get caught up in the thoughts, simply notice and move on.

After you complete this process with your whole body, you will feel deeply relaxed and much more in tune with your body.

You may add an extra benefit by "breathing into" each body part as you bring your attention to it.

Above all, remember that you are an infinite being, eternal in nature, living in a body; you are not the body only! Respect and nurture both your spirit and the container and you will find peace and well-being.

The Body-Scan technique is one of the many exercises that Rev. Manohara adapted for the Stress Relief Clinic she began at Holy Cross Hospital in Ft. Lauderdale. The clinic is an 8-week program which provides tools to cope effectively with stress and promotes improved quality of life.

Rev. Manohara is currently working to help improve the lives of hundreds of the unemployed residents of South Florida by providing individual career counseling, soft skills training and inspiration.

Be Present, Pay Attention, Take Action...

By Gregory Ashid Possman

The sign in front of the church I passed on my drive to the airport said "Pray for good crops and keep hoeing anyway." Sometimes genius jumps in front of me and I miss it. Luckily, this time I caught it. My thought was: a good harvest or crops come if you pray, water the seeds, fertilize, weed, keep hoeing and eliminate the pests. Traveling on to the airport, having parked the car in the long term parking lot I was waiting for the bus to the terminal. A fellow passenger, on his way to a trade show, explained to me that his company performs a service taking thermal pictures from the sky to reveal subterranean leaks in water pipes. He showed me a giant rolled map of one such city and then explained how the process is also used to identify pests like insects in fields of crops, both above and below ground. This was the most informative ride to the terminal I've ever enjoyed as my journey proceeded. Realizing all of these messages related to something in my life, I begin to associate them with my listless attitude toward our computer website, created long ago and revised once more a year ago. The website is like my farm. I've continued to pray for a good crop, (more people and visitors to the site) but the hoeing or weeding on the site stopped long ago. I, the farmer, got lazy. I kept praying and dropped not only the hoe, but all the other tools, hoping the prayers would create the crop I wanted with the website. My American Webmaster warned me, countless times, my Danish Webmaster warned me frequently: DEAD CROP WARNING!!!

Others warned me as well, however the only one who paid no attention was me. Did God\Goddess, my higher self, get tired of a lazy farmer? Apparently. Though I don't believe our higher self ever gives up, as was obvious by the intensive client I worked with in the middle of June. Unbeknownst to me she had spent the last three years, studying and making a living, using joint internet ventures. Her message: my website had died and NOT gone to heaven. I killed it by not weeding out old content and not keeping it current. No new seeds had been planted in a long time. Having concluded a thorough conversation with this sponsor and client, bubbling with enthusiasm, I called my webmaster, asking about changes we might make to revive the website. After patiently listening, he explained that "change for the sake of change, makes no sense." Now the message is clear. We revive the farmer first, then we prepare the field, then we grow some crops. I was always good at putting the cart before the horse!

In a land far far away, I had channeled Arch-Angel Michael, and he said: Be Present, Pay Attention and Take Action, Act! I heard those words as I channeled and I copied them in my "to do" list so I could write an article about the wisdom implied. You're reading that article now. What were those words?

Be Present: Be alert to the feedback and messages received from all the sources in the universe i.e. the sponsor/client, the webmaster, the sign in front of the church, the man on the airport bus, and the dead website's lack of results.

Pay Attention: Receive the message: start weeding the farm called the website. Feed it, water it, put energy into it and perhaps a good crop will result. That's the message if I pay attention.

Take Action: Start a Blog in the website and make regular contributions to it. Update old content; give visitors to the site new items of value and wisdom. See the site as a tool to create relationships, not as an expense. Keep it current! Invest in myself. Change my attitude and thereby increase my altitude, ironic, given I wrote this article as I was traveling on an airplane to Miami! Pour energy into the website knowing it will return to me one hundred fold. Isn't that what I tell my clients? There are two kinds of people in the world, those who make things happen in their lives and those who wait for things to happen. Regarding the website, I know which kind of person I've been!

Perhaps you too have a dead or dying farm in your life. Perhaps, like me, you even have a dead or dying website somewhere out there in cyberspace. It may not be a dead website you're contending with, but there's something in your life that needs an awakened farmer tending it. There is something you could revive which would make you happy. Invest in yourself with energy, time, money or effort and see what happens. Maybe like me, you're a farmer whose let the field lie in waste, going to weed, praying for a good crop and not yet having realized it. Is it possible, all you need to do is sow some seeds, feed and water, do a bit of weeding with the hoe and watch some phenomenal crops grow in that old field? Let us not forget my advisors, thanks to those I've mentioned in this article. You know who you are. I hope you'll monitor my success as a farmer. I look forward to your feedback so I can

Special Offer to Become a Certified Life Cycle Celebrant This Fall

By Rev. Charlotte Eulette, Int'l Director of the Celebrant Foundation & Institute

It is a true delight for me, Rev. Charlotte Eulette, the director of the Celebrant Foundation & Institute, and my many colleagues, to be both a Universal Brotherhood Ministers and professional Certified Life-Cycle Celebrants® of the Celebrant Foundation & Institute. Our two organizations are a match made in heaven! Over the past decade our foundation and institute's Celebrant alumni across the US, Canada, Europe and Mexico co-create and officiate at thousands of one-of-a-kind, meaningful, life-cycle ceremonies each year. Our international Celebrant family thoroughly enjoys their interesting, heart-warming, socially conscious and financially viable Celebrant practice.

We at the Celebrant Foundation & Institute believe that all people need to be given the choice to honor their life's meaningful moments with a personalized and authentic ceremony that's a true reflection of who they are at the very core. Our institute's - live, online, distance learning program, educates Certified Life-Cycle Celebrants® to serve as rite-of-passage ritual makers in their communities. Once Celebrants graduate from our institute, they become members of our flourishing Celebrant Association serving their community and empowering people to express themselves through life's triumphs and tribulations via ceremony. We Celebrants consider ourselves: ceremony experts, ritual makers and human rite-of-passage activists!

Special Savings for our UB Ministers

If this piques your interest, we'd like to invite our Universal Brotherhood brothers and sisters to learn more about our Celebrant Foundation & Institute's Certified Life-Cycle Celebrant® 7 month, LIVE (with a teacher and students), on line, distance learning program of studies beginning this October 2011. We invite you to review our website to see if our program is of interest to you. Check our website:

<http://celebrantinstitute.org/?p=become> or contact us and we'll mail it to you.

Special Savings for UB Ministers this fall: If you wish to send in your application before August 30th 2011 UB Minister colleagues can take advantage of our UB Early Bird Tuition Savings of $100.00. Feel free to get in touch with Charlotte Eulette at:
